Investment performance calculations are available for verification upon request. Annualised returns are period returns re-scaled to a period of 1 year. This allows investors to compare returns of different assets that they have owned for different lengths of time. Actual annual figures are available to investors upon request. US CPI +2% performance has been shown as an indication of how the fund's returns compare to its objective of delivering capital appreciation in real terms. † Please refer to the fund supplement and scheme particulars for a detailed description of fees and fund facts.

* The Total Expense Ratios (TERs) are the percentages of the net asset value of the class of the Financial Product incurred as expenses relating to the administration of the Financial Product. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. A current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TERs. The TER to 30.09.24 is based on data for the period from 30.09.23 to 30.09.24 and the financial year-end TER is based on data for the financial year-end to 30.06.24. Cost ratios are calculated using historical actual and/or estimated data and are provided solely as an indication/guide as to the annual expenses/costs that could be incurred. These ratios do not represent any current/actual charges or fees.

 Current asset allocation figures look through to the holdings of underlying collective investment schemes.

Market commentary

Developed market (DM) equities had a poor end to the year, falling in December (MSCI World Index -2.6% MoM). However, that was not enough to undo a very good year for equity investors (MSCI World Index +19.2% YoY). Mega-cap tech companies defied the December gloom, doing enough to drag the Nasdaq 100 into positive territory for the month (+0.6% MoM). The so-called "Magnificent Seven" cohort of mega-cap tech stocks ended 2024 collectively 48% higher YoY, including a 171% YoY gain by chip maker Nvidia. Emerging market (EM) stocks fared better than their DM peers in December (MSCI EM -0.1% MoM) but significantly underperformed their DM peers for the full year (MSCI EM +8% YoY). Chinese equities were the key to EM's December outperformance as the Chinese government continued to announce measures aimed at boosting lacklustre economic growth. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) announced a much-anticipated third consecutive rate cut at its December meeting, having cut rates by 1% (to 4.33%) since September. The press conference that followed the meeting and the release of the quarterly forecasts from Fed members painted a more hawkish picture than investors were anticipating, with the average Fed member now only anticipating 0.5% of rate cuts in 2025. The surprisingly hawkish tone from the Fed resulted in a spike in US rates, leaving the US government's 10-year funding rate at 4.6% p.a. at year-end, the highest year-end level for that rate since 2006. The spike in borrowing rates supported the US dollar, which was stronger against most major currencies for a second consecutive month. Brent crude oil ended the year at US$75/bbl, rallying in December (+2.3% MoM), though still ending the year lower (-3.1% YoY). Industrial metals (-1.4% MoM and -1.6% YoY) struggled with a weaker Chinese economy, particularly iron ore (-2% MoM and -28% YoY). Gold was one of the better performers in 2024 (+27% YoY) despite a soft finish in December (-0.7% MoM). The portfolio retains its near neutral risk positioning vs benchmark, while we wait to see what policies the new US administration will implement in its first few months in office.

Risk warnings and important notes

Collective investments are generally medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future.

Collective investments are traded at ruling prices. Commission and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. All performance is calculated on a total return basis, after deduction of all fees and commissions and in US dollar terms. Forward pricing is used.

The Fund invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges. This could result in a higher fee structure for the Fund.

Fluctuations in the value of the underlying funds, the income from them and changes in interest rates mean that the value of the Fund and any income arising from it may fall, as well as rise, and is not guaranteed.

Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.

The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and may change in the future.

Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies, even in developed markets, investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt.

Notwithstanding ongoing monitoring of the underlying funds within the Fund, there can be no assurance that the performance of the funds will achieve their stated objectives.

The Fund will contain shares or units in underlying funds that invest internationally. The value of an investor's investment and the income arising from it will therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations.

Foreign securities may have additional material risks, depending on the specific risks affecting that country, such as: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds; macroeconomic risks; political risks; foreign exchange risks; tax risks; settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments other than on the fund's dealing days.

No borrowing will be undertaken by the Fund except for the purpose of meeting short term liquidity requirements. Borrowings will not exceed 10% of the net asset value of the Fund. For such purpose, the securities of the Fund may be pledged. No scrip borrowing will be allowed. The Cell is not permitted to enter into any form of borrowing or loan arrangement with other cells of the Company nor other collective investment schemes of the Manager.

While derivative instruments may be used for hedging purposes, the risk remains that the relevant instrument may not necessarily fully correlate to the investments in the Fund and accordingly not fully reflect changes in the value of the investment, giving rise to potential net losses.

Forward contracts are neither traded on exchanges nor standardised. Principals dealing in these markets are also not required to make markets in the currencies they trade, with the result that these markets may experience periods of illiquidity. Banks and dealers will normally act as principals and usually each transaction is negotiated on an individual basis.

The Manager has the right to close the Fund to new investors, in order to manage it more efficiently, in accordance with its mandate.

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors. Investors should obtain advice from their financial adviser before proceeding with an investment.

Investors are reminded that any forecasts and/or commentary included in this MDD are not guaranteed to occur, and merely reflect the interpretation of the public information and propriety research available to the Investment Manager at a particular point in time.
